INDIANA DAY AT ST. LOUIS

GOVERNOR DURBIN SELECTS SEPT. 15 FOR THE CELEBRATION.

Plans for Electrical Work and Plumb. ing Are on Exhibition-Work on State Building.

"Indiana day" at the St. Louis exposition will be celebrated on Thursday, Sept. 15. At the last meeting of the commission Assistant Secretary Alexander was requested to ask Governor Durbin to fix the date and the Governor did so yesterday. The date was selected because the Governor reasoned that more people from the agricultural districts would be at leisure at that time in the year than any other time in the fall or summer. It was thought May would be too early for a celebration of this kind and June, July and August would be too hot. As explained by Secretany Alexander it is too early to arrange a programme of exercises.

At the office of the commission the plans and specifications for the electrical work and the plumbing for the Indiana building are on exhibition. The contract will be let as soon as due advertisement is made. tract for putting up the building, have regular meeting of the commission will be seld in that city Oct. 12.

OLD STORY OF IRISH WRONGS TOLD ON WITNESS STAND.

James Lynchehaun Testifies in His Own Behalf in the Extradition Proceedings.

OUTCOME OF CASE IN DOUBT

HEARING WILL BE RESUMED ONE WEEK FROM MONDAY.

Courtroom Crowded with Interested People-Rulings of Commissioner Moores-The Testimony.

When the doors of the Federal Court, wherein the hearing of the case of James Lynchehaun, the Irish refugee, whom the $886.65, assets $791. British government is attempting to extradite, is being held, were thrown open at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, perhaps one hundred and fifty were waiting to rush in. By the time court was called to order the doorway and the rear of the room was banked with eager, interested faces, which throughout the afternoon watched the proceedings of the court with rapt attention.

States Commissioner Moores announced his decision as to whether the counsel of the defendant should be allowed to introduce evidence as to the nature of the crime which Lynchehaun committed and for which he was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Marlborough prison in Ireland. The decision of Commissioner Moores was, in brief, that testimony could be introduced n so far as it did not impugn or contradict the records of the original evidence in regard to the crime. LYNCHEHAUN TESTIFIES

Starting with this restriction, Lynchehaun himself was placed upon the stand and Attorney Spaan began his examination of the witness. His first question, "You may state whether or not there exists in Ireland a political organization known as the Land League," had scarcely left his lips when Charles Fox, of New York, the attorney for the British government, was on his feet with the objection that the question referred to a local organization and hence could not be considered political. The point was argued at length by both attorneys, grew out of and was connected with this political agitation. It was then that Ating to show, namely, that they were pursuing this course in order to show whether or not the crime was a political one, and if such, to show why he was made the obthere can be no extradition according to the treaty. The commissioner overruled the objection and Mr. Spaan repeated his question, to which the prisoner replied that there was such an organization as a land league, whose object was to oppose the op-pression of its members. Mr. Spaan's next question as to whether special legislation grew out of the existence of the league was again interrupted by Mr. Fox on the ground that it was a question leading to conclusive MANY OBJECTIONS. Throughout the whole proceedings Attorney Fox, who is a little man with a deal of cool self-possession, was continually jumping to his feet with objections to questions put by Mr. Spaan, many of which were sustained on the grounds above mentioned. The progress in the evidence for this reason was slow. By 5 o'clock, when the court adjourned, the testimony of the prisoner amounted to about the following: That at the time of Lynchehaun's crime almost every tenant in the island of Atchill belonged to the organization of the Land League, which had been organized in 1881 for protection from the oppression of the landlords. There was in the island another organization known as the Irish Revolutionary Brotherhood, organized since 1867, with the object of overthrowing the landlords of Ireland. The members of both of these societies were continually shadowed and watched by the constables and the po-especially in the five years preceding 1894, the date of Lynchehaun's crime, In the neighborhood of Lynchehaun's holding there were about two hundred members of these societies, and the feeling between them and the lords was very bitter. The meetings of the leagues were partially suppressed by coercion acts, carried out by fourteen that had been suppressed in his

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

It is alleged that Lynchehaun was a leader in these organizations and was continually under the surveillance of the police. For two years he was a school teacher in the county of Mayo. On the property of liver the discourse. At the First Baptist Agnes McDonald there were about eighty Church at 3 p. m. there will be a Pentetenants, including Lynchehaun. She was called by the tenants the "evicting queen of Atchill" and other titles. Almost daily, Lynchehaun said, tenants were arrested for trespass, such as letting their cattle graze on unrented ground, or even getting on it themselves. They were invariably fined or thrown in prison. However, the acts of eviction were the worst form of oppression with which the tenants had to deal. They were forcibly thrown from their homes. which had been handed down to them, and were left to live on the charity of their | Nicholson. The organization was the refriends, or seek refuge in another country. A bitter feeling existed between Agnes Mc-Donald, whom Lynchehaun assaulted, and her tenants, and they were seeking her crowded hotel and had to occupy the same overthrow because of the oppression they received from her hands.

At this point the testimony was suspended until the next session of the court, which will be a week from next Monday. The hearing was postponed in order to let the defense bring in other witnesses in the testimony. The witnesses are now on their way from Toledo, and are Irishmen who commenced work at St. Louis. The next lived in Lynchehaun's district at the time he was there.

The outcome of the case is in doubt to every one, as nothing of unusual importance has turned up yet. The many friends of Lynchehaun are hoping for the best. Mrs. Lynchehaun was in the courtroom yesterday, and was continually surrounded by a host of friends. She is a pretty little woman, whose face shows the suffering and anxiety she is undergoing.

ORDERS SALE OF THE ROAD.

Judge Baker Directs that Creditors of Lake Cities Line Be Satisfied.

A decree of foreclosure and sale was rendered by Federal Judge Baker yesterday in the case of The Metropolitan Trust Company versus The Lake Cities Electric Railway Company et al. Several claims had been filed against the road and these were referred to Noble C. Butler, as special master in chancery, to hear the evidence and report his findings of fact and conclusions thereon. His reports, filed some time ago, recommended the sale of the road and the foreclosure of the mortgage held by the trust company. His reports were in all things confirmed yesterday by Judge Baker and a sale was ordered of the mortgaged property, plant and franchises of the road. The decree directs that no bid for less than $40,000 shall be accepted, and that the road shall be sold at public auction in the city of Laporte. The special master is directed, upon receipt of the purchase price, first, to pay the costs and expenses of the suit and the compensation for the special master, then he is to pay the former receiver, Isidore I. men will probably be detailed to look after Spiro, the sum of $2,500 as compensation for the intruders. his services and $1.500 to his attorneys; the sum of $1,000 to Col. The total amount of the claims was $10,000, and included claims for legal services rendered, for personal injuries and for common labor done on the road. The largest claim presented was that of Charles Grantham, administrator of the estate of Wesley Grantham, for $2,500. HRISTIAN TRAVELING MEN CON-VENE IN STATE CONVENTION.

Interesting Story of How the Organi zation Was Brought About by s Chance Meeting.

The State convention of Gideons, an organization of Christian traveling men, will be held in Indianapolis to-day and to-mor-

The sessions to-day will be held in the Meridian-street M. E. Church, opening at 3 o'clock this afternoon with a devotional service by J. T. Van Zant. A business session will follow, including the annual election of State officers. At 7:30 there will be a Gideon service with song service, W. force of arms. Lynchehaun testified to C. Hall presiding as moderator. At 7:45 the Gideon campfire will take place, when

To-morrow's exercises will begin at 9:30 a. m. All the Gideons are expected to attend Sunday-school. At 10:30 all Gideons and traveling men will meet at the Denison Hotel and march to the First Baptist Church. The Rev. T. J. Villers will decostal service, with F. W. Kelsey, of Fort Wayne, as moderator. There will also be a song service at that hour. At 7:30 the Gideons will again gather at Meridianstreet Church, where E. A. P. Haynes, of St. Louis, will preside as moderator. At 7:45 there will be addresses by traveling men and music by a quartet. ORGANIZED IN 1899. The Gideons were organized at Janes ville. Wis., on Saturday, July 1, 1899, in the Y. M. C. A. building. The organizers were W. J. Knights, S. E. Hill and John H. sult of a chance meeting of Hill and Nicholson some time before. They met in a room. Hill retired first and Nicholson taking out his Bible for evening worship, was requested to read aloud. After prayer both slept. Next time they met was at Beaver Dam and a cordial greeting ensued. These men seemed to like each other instinctively from the start. While talking at Beaver Dam Mr. Hill said, "Nick, would it not be a good thing if the Christian traveling men could be banded together in an organization of some kind? "Yes, Sam, it would be a splendid idea, and suppose we get at it and organize at once; let's not talk about it, but get right at it and start the ball rolling and follow it up." A date was set for the first meeting at Janesville and letters were sent out to several well-known Christian traveling men, who heartly indorsed the movement.

At the appointed time but three of the men notified came and they organized the Gideons. The question of a name arose, and many suggestions were offered, but none seemed to sult. Then one suggested that they bow in silent prayer. This was done, and in a few minutes Mr. Knights. with uplifted eyes, said "Gideons." In an instant it was adopted. An important department of the work of the Gideons is the auxiliary. Without formal organization the wives and daughters of these men are united in a close relation to the work and are part of the strength of the Gideons.

CONTROLLER SELLS BATCH OF BRIDGE BONDS TO NEWTON TODD.

Broker Pays $23,003 for $23,000 Worth -Remainder Will Be Readvertised -Special Council Meeting.

Despite the stringency in the money market and the reluctance of bankers, both at home and in other cities, to handle securities bearing 31/2 per cent. interest, Controller Breunig yesterday sold $25,000 worth of Indianapolis bridge bonds for $25,003, a little better than par, and a most gratifying showing, in the opinion of bankers of this city who have expressed their opinion to Controller Breunig.

The controller did not expect to receive a bid for the $65,000 worth of bridge bonds on account of the tightness of the money market. He had received several letters from financial experts of New York and other cities saying that they did not care to enter competition for the bonds because at this time they did not desire to handle any securities bearing such a comparatively low rate of interest. The attitude of local bankers was much the same. Newton Todd, the only bidder, offered $25,003 for $25,000 worth of the total issue of $65,000, and his bid was accepted. Controller Breunig will at once readvertise the remaining $40,000 worth of the bridge bonds, and the bids will be received about the last of October. At that time, it is expected, a slightly increased premium will be received. "I am especially gratified at the result of the bond sale," said the controller yesterday, "for the reason that it keeps Indianapolis still in the 31/2 per cent. class, no small thing among men of financial standing who are accustomed to measure the financial worth of a city by the smallness of the interest it is accustomed to pay on its obligations. I have been assured that I have made an excellent sale, particularly for
